

Benjamin's Worst Nightmare

Benjamin the squirrel and his chicken friend Timmy go to school, but disaster strikes when they have to spend detention in the Math and Irish teacher's office. Benjamin forgot his math homework and he had to do it in the office. He feels angry and sad because they were supposed to go to his tree house to play. The teacher went down to get some Maths sheets for them.

They saw an open window, and jumped out and ran to their escape. Standing in front of the window was the English teacher. They thought they were safe, but then they realized the English and Maths teacher were chasing after them. The Maths teacher shouts "The principal will hear about this!" They end up getting detention and double homework.

The next day Benjamin and Timmy came in with frying pans in their hands. They threatened to hit the teachers if they ever gave them detention again.

That afternoon, Timmy and Benjamin want to get their revenge. They got on a plane to France to try and find something that will get rid of homework. On the way there, they found some nuts to eat. When they got to France they found a time machine, and went back in time to stop homework from being invented.

When they went back, the machine disappeared. They would have to find it again to get back. They walked to the nearest school and they sat at the back of the class. Over going back in time, the equipment used on the time machine disappeared, as it wasn't invented yet.

They looked out the window and there was a plane arriving in France. It was the Maths teacher, the English teacher and the Principal...

